"I DO NOT CHOOSE" MEANS "I WILL NOT"

IN NEW ENGLAND.
BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Mr. Coolidge's statement, "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," is not misunderstood here or anywhere else in New England. "I do not choose" is good old Yankee vernacular. It is as familiar as "Boston baked beans," and there is no more equivocation in it than there is in Plymouth Rock, Faneuil Hall, the Berkshire Hills or the "rockbound coast of Maine. In Yankee land "I do not choose" is final. It closes the shutters, puts out the light and locks the door.

G. O. P. Committee Heads Think President May Still Run

Chairman Butler and Vice Chairman Hilles Regret Coolidge Announcement—Dr. Butler Says Executive Acted Wisely.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Political and business circles in New York took the cryptic and unexpected announcement of President Coolidge, "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," with mixed feelings.

Charles D. Hilles, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, said: "The President's laconic statement was entirely unexpected, and I regret his action. He is a man of candor and sincerity, and I think he made the statement without reservation except that if an emergency should confront the country in 1928, and it should clearly be a duty to run, he will be free to do so. Otherwise I think he intends this to be final. He has had the satisfaction of knowing that he would have been renominated by an overwhelming majority. I think the President was considerate in announcing his renunciation now. It gives us 10 months in which to prepare for the nomination of his successor."

William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said: "I deeply regret the announcement but I am not fully convinced he will not run if nominated. He has taken it for granted, as I stated in an address to my friends and neighbors of the Riverside Republican Club last Feb. 7, when he saw the right time had come, decline to permit his name to be used as a candidate for a third term. Very many persons in public life disagreed with me more or less violently, but I have seen no reason to change the view then expressed. President Coolidge has done a wise and patriotic act. He has shown that principle can succeed over political ambition. He has displayed a fine and grand character."

George W. Oliver, leader of Tammany Hall, showed visible excitement at the news, but managed to contain himself and say nothing. Mayor Walker said: "Very interesting, if true."

Samuel S. Koenig, chairman of the Republican Committee of New York County, said: "I have nothing to say."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt had no comment to make.

TELEGRAMS POUR INTO RAPID CITY

Extra Wires Needed to Carry Them—Executive Interested in Nation's Reaction but Keeps Silence.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 3.—A tremendous stack of telegrams was laid before President Coolidge today, attesting the widespread interest with which the country met his statement issued yesterday: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928."

The telegrams came from everywhere, and while they were not made public, they were said to convey the expression from political leaders and friends in virtually all of the states.

Mr. Coolidge had scarcely left his office after making his remarkable and unexpected statement before the wires into Rapid City began to hum and soon the commercial lines were augmented by the President's personal wire from Washington in order to handle the fast mounting rush of telegrams.

Letting People Figure It Out. In the midst of all this hubbub, Mr. Coolidge settled back into his accustomed way of saying nothing, apparently content to let the country place such interpretation upon it as it chose. Nevertheless he was interested in the comment his pronouncement had aroused and examined closely all messages that came to him from various sources.

Mr. Coolidge maintained the strictest silence today, leaving the executive office without the slightest indication as to what he thought of the nation-wide stir his announcement had created.

His silence was assumed, also, by those close to the President, all of whom were absolutely in ignorance of his intention until a few moments before the whole country knew of it.

The only word that has come from the President is the remark that he thought it was the right time to make such a statement.

Some of the messages which reached Rapid City were relayed immediately to the Summer White House, 32 miles away, but most of them were left on his desk for perusal today.

While the President withheld further comment, the Summer Capital was swept into a frenzy of speculation.

As the first news of Washington's reaction to Mr. Coolidge's announcement began to trickle in, there was a general movement toward the Executive offices to learn whether this would not provoke additional enlightenment. It failed to do so.

There was in Rapid City a general consensus that the statement would be all the President would give out.

Republican Newspapers Generally Accept Renunciation as Sincere

MOST EDITORS OF HIS PARTY BELIEVE PRESIDENT MEANS HE WON'T TAKE NOMINATION

Democratic Papers Point Out, However, That Wording Still Leaves Way Open for Acceptance, If Drafted.

EDITORIAL COMMENT throughout the country on President Coolidge's announcement that he does not choose to run for the Presidency in 1928 shows that the Republican newspapers generally accept the statement as a sincere declaration.

Boston Transcript (Rep.)—Calvin Coolidge declines re-election to the presidency of the United States: An act whose approximate prototype is found in the refusal of George Washington to permit himself to be elected to that high office. This familiar New England phrase employed by the President is capable of only one construction in this part of the country: "I am unwilling to run for President in 1928." * * * We wish the President had been more explicit and illuminating in his utterance, but it is essentially characteristic.

New York Herald Tribune (Rep.)—On its face it is enigmatic and subject to various interpretations and highly stimulative of political speculation. It seems to be more an expression of personal feeling with regard to a situation in which the President could hardly escape the appearance of being actively a candidate to succeed himself. It may be assumed that he does not desire to be considered a candidate in any such sense. He has disclosed his natural sentiments in letting the country know that he does not ask for another term and is not individually concerned about having one. He is not seeking another nomination. But the Republican party and the country may also have their preferences. Political and economic conditions may make a continuance of the Coolidge administration highly advisable. What would the President do if such an imperative call came to him? We believe firmly that such a call will come and that he will respond to it.

Boston Herald (Rep.)—The country would welcome another term of Mr. Coolidge. It is ready to nominate and to elect him. We see no sufficient reason for his obstructive call to the country. We believe firmly that such a call will come and that he will respond to it.

Springfield (Mass.) Union (Rep.)—It has, of course, been a foregone conclusion that if the President would consent to run again or even if he remained silent he would be renominated by his party. * * * Had he any intentions of submitting to a choice by his party, he would hardly have made such a statement at this time or at any time. We are inclined to think that he means that he will not run and also means that, if any further expression of renunciation is needed, it will be forthcoming.

Philadelphia Public Ledger (Rep.)—If his words mean what they seem to mean, Calvin Coolidge has gone a considerable distance toward answering a question that has been asked over and over again. * * * There was no definition or interpretation of the words "choose." Nor was there any intimation that Mr. Coolidge would feel free to accept the call of a convention or that he was leaving the door open for his nomination. The statement of political world and the more devoted friends of Mr. Coolidge are asking themselves if he has, in fact and in deed, closed the door that leads to 1928.

Philadelphia Inquirer (Rep.)—His statement is definite. It comes in the nature of a bomb shell. The country has settled down to the belief that he would be renominated and re-elected. The great bulk of people had accepted this situation with gratification. * * * And now of a sudden comes the declaration to serve again. * * * Too bad, for the country needs him.

Kansas City Journal (Rep.)—Mr. Coolidge's announcement * * * immediately strengthens him with the coming Congress. His motives will be beyond question and his increased popularity will insure large support in such measures as he ably espouses or opposes. * * * Mr. Coolidge serves both his country and his own fame in making his decision.

Ohio State Journal (Rep.)—That word "choose" in his laconic announcement may leave some uncertainty in many minds as to what the President's purpose is. A man may choose or prefer not to do a thing and still be persuaded to do it. But anyone who knows his New England knows what the President means, viz., that he has decided not to run and won't run.

New York Daily News (Rep.)—Any political prophet would have been justified in betting his shoes that Mr. Coolidge would be before the Republican convention next June as an aspirant for the nomination and that he would get it hands down. The race for the Republican nomination in 1928 is now

NOW SOME REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES VIEW COOLIDGE'S WORDS

FOLLOWING IS COMMENT by men whose names have been mentioned in connection with the Republican Presidential nomination in 1928:

WICE PRESIDENT CHARLES G. DAWES, at Chicago: "President Coolidge enjoys the confidence and respect of the American people, and his decision will be received with regret by millions of his countrymen."

FRANK J. LOWDEN, former Governor of Illinois, at Alexandria Bay, N. Y.: "I have no statement to make beyond the one already made to different newspapers calling upon me. That statement was, in substance, that I know of no man in all our history who has run away from the Presidency."

WILLIAM W. WELLS, Secretary of Commerce, at Palo Alto, Cal.: "I regret the suggestion in the statement. However, I still believe, as I stated in Chicago two weeks ago, that I believe if sufficient interest in his candidacy is manifested he can be persuaded to accept the nomination. This being the case of the day's development, few of the men in a position to talk about it will comment for publication."

THOMAS J. WALSH (Dem.)—The President's decision is a surprise. It is a surprise to me. I am surprised and sorry to hear it. I have expected Mr. Coolidge to be the Republican candidate in 1928, and he could be re-elected easily."

ALBANY (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press (Ind. Rep.)—The announcement will be the signal for a raising of the Presidential lightning rods all the way across the country, or at least into Idaho. But back into the excitement of the movement caused by the word from out the Black Hills, there will be a strong sense that in his respect the last word has not been spoken.

DETROIT NEWS (Ind.)—When history is written the announcement by President Calvin Coolidge that he does not seek re-nomination may be rated as the biggest act of his political career. Second only to Washington, he is likely to be the man who did most to fix eight years as the maximum term for American Presidents. * * *

San Francisco Chronicle (Rep.)—There can be no doubt what Calvin Coolidge means. At the first surprising impact of his renunciation some found cryptic the form of words "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." But the meaning is plain. "I do not choose to run" is plain New England for "I am not a candidate." Mr. Coolidge has made his choice. It is not to run.

Boston Traveler (Rep.)—Silent as Mr. Coolidge has been regarding his desires and aspirations, political observers have deemed his acts an open book. They have pointed to his choice as a vacation spot in the Middle West and his conciliatory attitude toward the farmers of late as tolerably sure proofs he would seek re-election. The open book turns out to have a surprise ending. The President may or may not cherish a desire to occupy the White House longer than any other executive. He has set aside any such ambition. If he had it, it is to relieve his party of the embarrassment which might come with running him for a second term. Republican leaders will undoubtedly urge the President to reconsider. But this he will be most unlikely to do.

Los Angeles Times (Rep.)—Now it is the turn of the American people to say how they feel about it. It is what they want and not what the President wants which will decide whether or not Calvin Coolidge will be a candidate next year.

Salt Lake City Tribune (Rep.)—The Tribune is inclined to believe that President Coolidge at his word. If he does not choose to be a candidate in 1928, he will neither go after the Republican nomination nor take it if it is offered him.

New York Evening Post (Rep.)—While in form Mr. Coolidge's statement is not final, since at a later time, in response either to his own desire or to "public demand," he could "choose to run," practically he has shut the gate against his entrance into the presidential race of next year. Or, rather, to be accurate, he has formally withdrawn from a race in which his silence had already informally entered him. * * *

Washington Post (Ind.)—He has eliminated himself from next year's campaign. * * * Mr. Coolidge knew in all probability he would be nominated if he remained silent. He could not say so, but he would not run for President in 1928, and by so saying decline the nomination in advance. He has done so.

POLITICIANS NOT SATISFIED THAT COOLIDGE IS OUT

Presidential Candidates Tongue-Tied, However, by Fear That He May Re-Enter the Race.

BY CHARLES MICHELSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The bombshell from Rapid City, in the office of the White House, means that President Coolidge has stepped out of the political arena, but hasn't closed the door.

In other words the politicians accept his statement that he doesn't choose to run for President in 1928, as meaning what it says, but believe if sufficient interest in his candidacy is manifested he can be persuaded to accept the nomination. This being the case of the day's development, few of the men in a position to talk about it will comment for publication.

For example you couldn't get a word out of any member of the Cabinet except Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, though privately they let it be known that the pre-decision was a complete surprise.

THINKS IT A TRIAL BALLOON. One of the careful ones put it this way: "You will not be able to tell for two or three weeks or a month what it means. If the country takes it calmly as the retirement of a big figure and goes about its business of selecting a successor, the Coolidge statement is good; if on the other hand a flood of messages to Rapid City and clamorous editorials in the newspapers protest that he must not let his personal desires interfere with his duty to his country, the statement with the addition that while retirement is his choice, it is for the people, through the Republican convention to do the choosing."

TONGUE-TIED CANDIDATES. The decision apparently clears the way for the other candidates for the Republican nomination to come out into the open with their names and desires. The list shows that with the possible exception of Lowden, they are bound to be as tongue-tied as the senators and cabinetiers.

LOWDEN, AGENT IN THE OFFING. Lowden, Hoover, Charles Evans Hughes, Willis and Fess of Ohio, Watson of Indiana, Wadsworth of New York, Hiram Johnson has to campaign for the Senate, and it is doubtful if he will forego a practical certainty for a vague chance that he might prevail in the Republican convention. Nothing is less likely than that any one of these would say anything about the pleasure of the man who will have the awarding of the prize, by definitely announcing his candidacy or going gunning for delegates.

LOWDEN, AGENT IN THE OFFING. Lowden is a different person. He is pretty well outside the breast-works anyhow, and knows that Coolidge is not going to bestow any delegates on him whatever happens. Lowden has been waiting for a Coolidge declaration to deliver himself of some views as to third terms for presidents, and the statement may furnish him with the text, which he will surely take the form of commendation for Mr. Coolidge's patriotic adherence to the sacred tradition that no President should serve more than twice.

RESEMBLES GRANT'S ACTION. The occasion for the President's decision was the last day of his fourth year as President. The oath of office was administered by his father in Plymouth, Vt., at 2:47 a. m., Aug. 3, 1923, on re-election for a second term. President Harding's death, then, indicates that the third term issue was in his mind. Incidentally the opinion is hazarded that it is a very deft way of handling that embarrassing question. He is claiming any desire on his own part for another term; if the country insists on it that puts the matter in a different light. The thought is not quite original. President Grant made a similar declaration, but had to be beaten in the convention following.

Whatever his idea is today, there seems to be no question that President Coolidge has been waiting for a Coolidge declaration to deliver himself of some views as to third terms for presidents, and the statement may furnish him with the text, which he will surely take the form of commendation for Mr. Coolidge's patriotic adherence to the sacred tradition that no President should serve more than twice.

HOW LEADERS OF BOTH PARTIES IN CONGRESS TAKE COOLIDGE ANNOUNCEMENT

Following are statements by United States Senators, Congressmen and others on President Coolidge's announcement that he does not choose to run for the Presidency in 1928.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.)—The wise determination of President Coolidge not again to become a candidate will be approved by most Americans. It is scarcely to be believed that any others desiring his re-election were undisturbed by misgiving at the departure from the precedent set by Washington and especially by Jefferson. It would be difficult to alarm anyone concerning the fate of the United States if the President were to be chosen again. But the rule once departed from ceases to exist and it becomes relatively easy for some bold and ambitious man or one not scrupulous to utilize the vast power and prestige of the Presidential office to perpetuate himself in that eminent place. I said more than two years ago that when the proper time came President Coolidge would announce that he would not run again and that should he be nominated the anti-third term sentiment, easily stirred, would prove his undoing."

Senator Thomas D. Schall (Rep.)—Minnesota: "I am surprised and sorry to hear it. I have expected Mr. Coolidge to be the Republican candidate in 1928, and he could be re-elected easily."

A BIGGER MAN THAN EVER. Senator C. G. Dill (Dem.) Washington: "I have been predicting this for two months, but I am just a little surprised that he makes the announcement this early. Mr. Coolidge is a man greatly influenced by the history and tradition of the country. And there has been a subtle campaign going on against him by the association of his party, seeking to place on him the responsibility for seeking a third term nomination, rather than to have the demand for a third term come from the people. The President is to be congratulated on his adherence to the tradition that he has become almost unwritten law. It will make him a bigger man than ever."

Had His Fingers Crossed. Senator T. H. Caraway (Dem.) Arkansas: "The President's announcement will be hailed with delight, but there will always be the fear that there was a mental reservation that he might consider becoming a candidate if he is drafted to do so by the people."

Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.)—Mississippi: "President Coolidge is merely playing hide and seek with the American people. The President's statement means nothing. If President Coolidge ever winked his eye or had his fingers crossed he must have done so when he said 'I do not choose to run for President in 1928.'"

Former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey: "I hope that the President will not continue in his determination not to run for the nomination in 1928. I believe the people should draft him in spite of his personal disinclination to be a candidate."

Lowden Men Pleased. Gov. Adam McMullen of Nebraska, leader of the Lowden-for-Coolidge forces in that State: "No man at the present measures up to the requirements more than former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. He is conversant with industrial conditions as well as agricultural needs and would endeavor to see that justice is accorded to all activities."

Frank J. Lund, chairman of the Iowa Lowden-for-President Committee: "President Coolidge's declaration forecasts no slacking of efforts on the part of the Lowden forces for the East will have another candidate of the same type."

SENATOR WATSON BELIEVES COOLIDGE'S WITHDRAWAL REAL

Indianan, in City on Business, Says Republicans Now Are Without a Logical Candidate.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, in St. Louis on legal business today, said that while he was surprised by President Coolidge's announcement about not "choosing" to seek a third term, he took it in good faith as a definite declaration of candidacy.

The President, he said, is neither "a four flusher nor a grandstander," and he did not think the manner and form of the statement was conceived with a desire to feel out sentiment or attract messages of support.

There is no logical candidate for the party now, the Senator declared, mentioning the names of Lowden, Hoover and Dawes as possibilities. He questioned whether or not the party could well run, coming from the same state as Lowden, the Senator's personal friend, since Lowden has an organization started for the race, "Former Gov. Hodley of Missouri, he agreed, would be a good man for the place. "I am assuming Nicholas Longworth will be a candidate, too," the Senator concluded.

TWO KILLED, $750,000 WORTH IN EXPLOSION ON TOW

Two Others Hurt and Two Missing When Craft and Oil Barge Collided Near Vicksburg, Miss.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 3.—Search was begun today for two men who were missing from the tow-barge which exploded and burned yesterday, 45 miles north of here. Two men were killed and two others hurt.

The Sprague was loaded with a tow of 16 barges when the explosion occurred. The barges were covered with kerosene oil for a distance of two miles. The Sprague was towed to shore.

It was a scene of indescribable confusion. Capt. Fitzgerald said the barges went better-shattered. The oil blazed up for a distance of 200 feet. We were a quarter of a mile behind the Sprague, several times had to get the port out of danger or we would have burned too. We had to make a U-turn, unable to get a distance until the fire subsided.

The damage was estimated at $750,000.

LINDERBERGH AT PITTSBURGH
Flyer Completes Another Leg of National Air Tour.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3.—Charles A. Lindbergh and his Atlantic monoplane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," completed another leg of their national air tour, landing at Bettis Field, McKeesport, 2:06 o'clock this afternoon, flying from Cleveland. He had over Canton and Youngstown on the way here.

The flyer passed over the university of Pittsburgh stadium, another great throng was assembled to witness the official reception. The program included a parade from McKeesport to the stadium where Lindbergh was scheduled to make an address. A banquet was given for the night. Police estimated 250,000 visitors were in the city for the celebration.

MURDER FOLLOWED ROBBERY.
The murder of Werner followed the robbery of Mrs. B. C. Dahlberg of Chicago in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York, March 10. Between $60,000 and $80,000 was taken.

On the Monday before the murder, the Williams woman said, "I came to work and found Werner with an actress named Frances White. He was sitting at a table and Werner went into a room which Bernstein occupied. He didn't seem to know Werner because he said to Bernstein, 'I don't know that man.' Werner told him that he was Werner and told him that he was Werner. Werner told him that he was Werner and told him that he was Werner."

Tells of Threats Uttered.
The following morning the people were at the apartment. Bernstein came into the kitchen and said to me: 'I am going to New York. I'll give you $500. I'm going there to get $500. The State charged this as a robbery. I'm coming right back. You won't have long to work here. Werner is going to die.'"

Quarrel at Roadhouse.
The next morning I heard Nelson and Bernstein talking about a quarrel at the Victory Inn, Werner's roadhouse, the night before. I heard Bernstein say, 'Werner thought he was doing a smart thing by taking me for the money I owed him. He said, 'That's O. K. We'll get even.' Just then Werner came out of his room and Bernstein jumped up and said, 'Don't you say a thing or I'll blow your brains out.' Then Bernstein ran into his room and came out with a revolver in each hand. He pointed one at Werner. I ran down the back stairs.

Bernstein called me back and said Bernstein talked to me. Bernstein said 'Ray and I are going to give you $500 to go to New York because you won't be needed at Broadway after tomorrow. We are going to bump him off. We want you to get away because we tell we'll burn you down.' The next morning I heard that Werner had been killed."

Counsel for Bernstein and Jones are making a search for the woman, Frances White, who was reported to have been in Werner's room the night of the killing.

WOMAN HUSBAND KILLED MAN
She Disposed of Body.
HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 3.—The killing of Gus Stassenius, Hammond restaurant proprietor, whose body was found last Easter in the Calumet city stockyards, was solved, the police said today, with the arrest and confession of Mrs. Ethel Stassenius, 24 years old.

Her husband, Sam, killed Stassenius with a monkey wrench, after she had lured him to her room, according to Mrs. Stassenius' confession, as given out by the police. She said that after her husband had beaten Stassenius she placed the dying man in her automobile and started for a hospital, but became frightened and instead drove to the stockyards and dumped him. She was held on a charge of murder.

Witness Links Killing With $60,000 Dahlberg Jewel Robbery in New York—Actress Sought.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—Testimony tending to link the murder of Ted Werner, roadhouse proprietor and former St. Louisan, April 10, with the $60,000 Dahlberg jewel robbery in New York, was given yesterday by Ruth Williams, maid employed by Werner, who heard her story at the preliminary hearing of Joseph Bernstein, one of the men charged with the murder.

Bernstein and Milford Jones, alias William Nelson, a Hogan and Cuckoo gangster of St. Louis, are under indictment for the killing. The State charges that Bernstein, who ostensibly was Werner's bodyguard, quarreled with him over the $60,000 robbery.

Ruth Williams testified that on the day of the murder both Nelson and Bernstein were in Werner's apartment hotel. She told her story yesterday by Ruth Williams, maid employed by Werner, who heard her story at the preliminary hearing of Joseph Bernstein, one of the men charged with the murder.

TWO KILLED, $750,000 DAMAGE IN EXPLOSION ON TOW-BARGE

When Craft and Oil Barge Burn Near Vicksburg, Miss.

By the Associated Press.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 3.—Search was begun today for the men who were missing from the barge of the tow-boat Sprague, which exploded and burned here yesterday. Two men were killed and two others seriously injured in the blast. The injured men were brought here on the steamer Gulfport, which stood by after the explosion.

According to H. R. Fitzgerald, captain of the Gulfport, six of the barges, loaded with oil, burned. He said the first explosion occurred about noon and that soon the river was covered with burning oil for a distance of two miles. The Sprague was southbound with a tow of 19 barges when the tow broke up. Then the first explosion occurred. Two of the barges went aground and two were towed to shore.

"It was a scene of indescribable confusion," Capt. Fitzgerald said. "The barges went helter-skelter and the oil blazed up for a distance of 200 feet. We were a quarter of a mile behind the Sprague and several times had to get the Gulfport out of danger or we might have burned too. We had to stand helplessly, unable to give assistance until the fire subsided a bit."

The damage was estimated at $750,000.

Mrs. Coolidge and Some of Her New Pets Acquired in Black Hills

MRS. COOLIDGE has acquired a number of new pets since she and the President went to the Black Hills in South Dakota to spend their summer vacation. The photograph shows Mrs. Coolidge on the lawn of the State Game Lodge with Diana, the white collie given to her after the death of Prudence Prim; Tiny Tim, the Chow and Ebenezer, the donkey.

comply, but if it is left to his personal choice he'd prefer not to run. I do not see any other construction to be placed on it."

Senator Norbeck, of this state, who was also present at the executive offices about the time the statement was issued could only say after he was informed of its contents: "I am surprised."

Circumstances of Statement.

Here is the accurate account of the events leading up to the publication of President Coolidge's statement:

In the first place, not a person in Rapid City knew how long Mr. Coolidge deliberated his course or whether he consulted with himself as to the wording of the statement. He did not consult anyone here and has not said a single word regarding it to anyone since the announcement was given out.

At 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning the President called into his office Everett Sanders, his private secretary. He handed him a piece of white note paper on which had been written in Mr. Coolidge's own handwriting the words: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928."

Without discussing the note, Mr. Coolidge said:

"Mr. Sanders, I would like you to ask Mr. Geisser to make 20 copies of this."

"Very well, Mr. President," the secretary replied.

Orders Statement Typed.

Leaving the President's private office, Sanders looked at the note and as soon as he could recover from his surprise, called for Edwin Geisser, Mr. Coolidge's confidential stenographer, and told him to write the note four times on a page and make five pages.

"Do you think 20 copies of it will be enough for the newspaper men?" Sanders asked.

Geisser replied that he thought that would be sufficient.

The statement was written on the typewriter and the pages were cut up into 20 notes. The slips were folded and taken to the president who kept them on his desk until noon, when he called the correspondents.

There is nothing here to indicate that the statement will cause any change in Mr. Coolidge's activities in the Black Hills, where he expects to remain until the first week in September. He has planned two more trips into neighboring areas before returning to Washington, and no doubt will take advantage of a few others should the occasion arise.

Tomorrow he and Mrs. Coolidge will go by special train to Deadwood, S. D., to attend a big Western celebration and Aug. 17 will visit the Indian reservation at Pine Ridge. At Deadwood Mr. Coolidge will be made a chief of the Sioux tribe.

DAWES PLAN REVISION NEEDED, BARUCH SAYS

Asserts Reparations and German Industrial Loans Form International Problem.

By Leased Wire from New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Two years probably find a change necessary in the Dawes plan, according to Bernard M. Baruch, financier and chairman of the War Industries Board, who has returned from Europe with his daughter, Miss Rene W. Baruch.

War reparations and interest on German industrial loans will form the international problem that may force changes in the Dawes plan, according to Mr. Baruch.

"The reparations from Germany in 1928 and 1929 will begin to assume big proportions," he said. "At the same time, there will be the question of interest to be paid by German industries on borrowed capital."

Baruch Says Revision Necessary.

"The question which the world will be faced with at this time will be whether the reparations shall take precedence in the transfer of actual monies from Germany. The interest on private loans cannot be transferred from Germany if they endanger the reparations, and they cannot be transferred unless the Dawes Commission consents."

Revision seems necessary to Baruch, who continued: "I cannot but believe that this situation, evidently not taken into account with the formation of the Dawes Commission, will call for a complete revision of the program of that commission and will force the making of a definite figure to be paid by Germany."

"Certainly it is a question which is occupying the attention of European financiers."

Divorces Important Issue.

The question of Parisian divorces seemed to be the most important issue for the present among other passengers aboard the Olympic on which the Baruches returned.

Doris Stevens, who has filed divorce action in Paris against Dudley Field Malone, said: "I am arriving simply as Doris Stevens."

As she has always used the name of Doris Stevens, the matter was hardly cleared.

Jack Pickford was equally non-committal on the subject of a divorce. Pickford and Marjory Miller announced their intention of being divorced when they sailed from America several weeks ago. He insisted he did not know whether any papers had been actually filed with the courts in Paris.

Louis Bromfield, whose novel won the Pulitzer prize in 1926, returned to supervise the production of his new play, in which Miss Elsie Ferguson, another passenger, will appear.

SEEKS SCORE BOARD INJUNCTION

A petition asking that the Golde Clothes Shop be restrained from posting baseball scores on a scoreboard at Sixth and Olive streets each afternoon was filed today in Circuit Court by the Boyd-Richardson Men's Apparel Co., which operates a store across the street.

The petition states that large crowds gather in Sixth street each afternoon to get the returns and that many of the spectators line up against the windows of the Boyd firm, obscuring displays. The Boyd firm has demanded that the practice be discontinued, but the other firm has refused to desist, the petition relates.

AMBASSADOR TAKES AUTO TRIP OVER U. S.

Lessons of Present and Future Taught Him on Journey, Pueyrredon Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—If you are curious about the past, travel in Europe. But if you would learn of the present and future, tour the United States from coast to coast. That is the lesson Ambassador Pueyrredon of Argentina says he learned during a 10,000-mile automobile trip across the country.

"I saw man still involved in conquering nature," Pueyrredon explained. "It made me realize the endless effort of the American people, especially in the agricultural sections. Argentina, a similar country, has much to learn from your methods."

"There is interest everywhere in conserving your natural resources. Unnecessary exploitation of nature is discouraged. Even the animals are protected by signs, 'Shoot only with your camera.'"

"On a visit 17 years ago I could not go 50 miles from Chicago by automobile. But now good roads have linked this country into a social and economic unit. I admire that."

"Hollywood struck me as an unreal city. You see big buildings, then learn they are but pasteboard. It is a veritable fairyland."

"One unusual and rather pleasant observation I made was the number of young people in the small towns drinking milk. On every table milk instead of wine."

JEWELER CONVICTED OF HOLDING UP BANK

David Blumenfeld of Chicago Found Guilty of Chenoa, Ill., Robbery.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 3.—David Blumenfeld, Chicago jeweler, was found guilty of the robbery of the Farmers' State Bank, Chenoa, on January 13, 1925, by a jury in the Circuit Court, this morning.

Motion for a new trial was made immediately after the jury reported its verdict, reached at 11 p. m. last night and brought in at 9 o'clock this morning. Judge Edward Barry set Aug. 4 at 9 a. m. as the time for a hearing on the motion.

Because the only witness who had seen the robbery made with a gun was dead, the State solicitor pressed counts with mention of a revolver in them. The verdict of the jury, robbery, carries a sentence of three to twenty years.

The robbery was sensational because it was in broad daylight, shrewd in its conception and completely in its execution. Three men stayed in Chenoa all one afternoon to "pull" the trick and made no evident attempt to conceal themselves. They were as nearly appointed bank examiners, with credentials. The robbery was not discovered until two hours after they left.

One man, Harry King, is now serving time in Joliet for the robbery. Another, William Evans, arrested when he attempted to bomb a way out of Joliet jail for Punk, is in the McLean County jail awaiting trial for the same robbery.

THREE DRUG STORES HELD UP

Two Armed Robbers Obtain $168 at Two Places; Clerk Fells Theft at Third.

Three drug stores were held up within 30 minutes last night between 9 and 10 o'clock by two men believed to have been the same in each robbery. The robbers stole a total of $166.92, but failed to get $100 in another store from which they were routed by the clerk.

Alfred Fleishman was on duty in the Washington Drug Store, 218 Eitel avenue, when two robbers entered. As the one carrying a revolver lowered the weapon while reaching for $100 in the cash register, Fleishman hurled a soda bottle at the robber, who ran out.

Meyer Werner and Paul Engel, a clerk, were in Werner's drug store at 5435 Easton avenue when two men held up the place. They took $106.92 and escaped in an automobile. Deputy Sheriff Sheller was standing in a drug store at 6189 Natural Bridge road, St. Louis County, when two men came in, and after asking him if he was "the law" took $60. Sheller's revolver was in his machine parked outside, and he was unable to prevent the robbery.

SAYS FLOGGERS USED 3-FOOT HICKORY STICK

Alabama Victim Takes Stand—Writ of Attachment Issued for K. K. K. Records.

By the Associated Press.
ONEONTA, Ala., Aug. 2.—Hickory limbs about three feet long were piled to the legs and back of Jeff Calloway while his masked assailants asked "where is your still?" and "how long have you been bootlegging?" the complaining witness testified at the trial of seven men charged with flogging.

Calloway, a tall angular farm youth, replied hesitatingly to the questions asked by Attorney General McCall of Alabama, who has taken personal charge of the prosecution of Eugene Doss, the first of the seven defendants to go on trial. Meantime the effort to obtain the records of the Ku Klux Klan went forward when a writ of attachment for James Esdale, Grand Dragon of the Alabama realm, was issued by the court. Esdale testified Monday that he did not know anything about the records of the Tarrant City local of the Klan. The floggers were masked and robed, Calloway testified. After they had beaten him about the back and legs, they ordered him to run. He ran a short distance and sat down, he said, later making his way to a farm house where he stayed that night. He was given medical treatment the next day, he testified.

SAYS NEXT 10 DAYS WILL "MAKE OR BREAK" GRAIN CROP

Minnesota Farm Expert Warns Against Rust Danger in His State and Both Dakotas.
By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, Aug. 2.—Weather conditions of the next 10 days will "make or break" the grain crop in the Dakotas and Minnesota, Dr. E. C. Stakman, head of the plant pathology department of the State College of Agriculture, said today. Returning from an inspection tour of those states, Dr. Stakman warned that the "rust" danger of the Northwest crop should not be minimized, for the situation is extremely critical. If "four or five days of hot and humid weather" are experienced in the next 10 days, grain losses will be "terrible," Dr. Stakman said.

LESTER BARTH FREED IN $12,000 BANK ROBBERY CASE

Court Grants Motion of Prosecutor for Dismissal, in Absence of Witnesses.

The case against Lester Barth, charged with stealing $12,000 from the Hamilton State Bank in the holdup of March 5, 1927, was dismissed by Circuit Judge Roskopf yesterday, after Assistant Circuit Attorney Lemon entered a nolle prosequi.

Lemon told the Court that the lone identifying witness against Barth was Harvey Kline, formerly of 5907 Washington boulevard, now a sailor with the United States fleet in the Pacific. None of the parties to Barth's prosecution care to undertake the expense of bringing Kline to St. Louis to testify, Lemon added, and without Kline the State has no case.

Barth was arrested two days after the holdup and has been held since. The case had been postponed five times. Several men took part in the holdup, holding at bay six customers and eight employees of the bank while they looted the vault and cash drawers. Other suspects than Barth were arrested but released.

SAYS 'MINE HASN'T REOPENED

B. F. Reese Asserts Company Could Not Operate Profitably Under Scale.

B. F. Reese, president of the Bullock Mining Co., which has a coal mine at Collinsville, Ill., today said his company has not signed the miners' wage scale and has not resumed operation. This mine was included in the list published in last Saturday's Post-Dispatch as having renewed operation. Reese said it will be impossible for his mine to run profitably under terms of the wage scale which coal miners of the district have demanded be placed in effect.

Sues for Part of Mother's Estate. Claude Wintz of 2200 Michigan avenue, Carondelet, yesterday sued to establish his title to half interest in property in South St. Louis valued at $45,000 left by his mother, Mrs. Nora Wintz, who died in 1923. As defendants, he named his sister, Mrs. Ethel Johannes; his father, William Wintz; his stepmother, Mrs. Emily Wintz; and Albert J. Michel and J. B. Heinzer, in whose names deeds to part of the property were filed.

SHOOT WIFE IN QUARREL OVER DOG THAT WAS KILLED

Alvin Z. Recklein Says He Told Her Not to Let Puppy Out of House.

A family altercation which began when their pet, a young puppy, was killed by an automobile on the State highway in front of their home, ended last night when Alvin Z. Recklein, proprietor of a parking lot for automobiles across from Madison Kennel Club, shot and seriously wounded his wife, Mrs. Birdie Recklein, in the front room of their home, adjoining the parking space.

Recklein obtained the dog two weeks ago and had warned several times against permitting it to get onto the highway. During the afternoon, however, the dog went into the road and almost immediately was run over. Recklein blamed his wife for the mishap and in the altercation that followed, took a revolver from beneath the pillow of his bed.

"I only intended to frighten her when I told her I was going to shoot," Recklein said today. "I pointed the weapon at her and it went off somehow. My wife fell to the floor and I summoned a doctor. Just before this I had sent our two children out to get the pup's body and bury it and they were on this errand at the time."

Mrs. Recklein, wounded in the left chest, said she did not wish to prosecute her husband. Recklein will be held, however, pending outcome of her wound.

What the Young Folks Think of
The Old Folks

There has been enough said of what the world thinks of the young and the older generation in general, but what do the young think of the old? "The American Magazine" has asked.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Out in the Great World

Experience is Nature's guide
And through it are her children tried.

—Old Mother West Wind.

I wasn't a great while before the news of Winsome Bluebird's queer family had spread all through the Old Orchard and even far beyond; so when the young Bluebirds left the little house to try their wings there was a great gathering of all the little people of the Old Orchard to look at them. They were just as white as the driven snow. There wasn't a particle of color anywhere on any one of them.

"I don't believe they are Bluebirds," declared Goldie the Oriole when he first saw them. "No, sir, you can't tell me that they are Bluebirds."

Just then one of them whistled. It was a Bluebird whistle beyond doubt. There was no mistaking it. Then another one of them whistled. Goldie was looking right at this one when he whistled. Goldie blinked and he swallowed very quickly. It was just as if he were trying to swallow the fact. Then without a word Goldie turned and flew away.

But most of the other birds stayed around. "It's too bad," said Welcome Robin.

"What is too bad?" inquired Chippy the Chipping Sparrow.

"Why, that those young Bluebirds have white coats," said Welcome Robin.

"I don't see anything too bad about it," replied Chippy. "They look very nice, if you ask me."

"I know, I know," replied Welcome Robin. "But think of the trouble those coats are going to make those poor birds!"

"In what way?" asked Kitty the Catbird.

"In trying to keep out of sight," replied Welcome Robin. "Where under the sun can they go to keep out of the way of their enemies? How are they going to hide? Every cat and every hawk that happens along is bound to see them. Why, even in the dark, Hooty Owl will be able to see them. At best, life is hard enough for us birds. But think of these poor things trying to get food and keep out of the claws of their enemies!"

"That is what they're going to be," declared Mrs. Winsome in a most decided tone.

It's too bad," said Welcome Robin

LAUGHING AROUND THE WORLD

with IRVIN S. COBB

Probably Afraid of Germs.

THE small boy was sitting on a doorstep. Continually, almost continuously, he sniffed. His inhalations were deep and strong and very audible.

An elderly lady passed by. She took note of the child's occupation. She was moved to reprove him. "Little boy," she said, "have you got a handkerchief?"

"Yes," answered the little one, "but I ain't lending it to strangers."

Skirts Are Creased Now.

LONDON.—Trousers creases are the latest among the fair sex of London's smart set.

The creases are ironed into the skirts of gray flannel suits now popular with British society women, and run from waist to hem on each side. Despite the "trouser creases," however, dressmakers say there is nothing masculine about the suit.

A gray felt hat, worn with the outfit, has a wide brim and is ornamented with a silver hat-pin.

You see, Welcome Robin knows Sammy Jay so well that he suspected that Sammy wouldn't miss such an opportunity to scare all his neighbors at one time. Sure enough, in a moment Sammy Jay began screaming "Thief! Thief! Thief!" at the top of his lungs, just as he does when he sees a member of the Hawk family. Instantly all the birds scattered, and in less time than it takes to tell it not one was to be seen excepting the three white Bluebirds. The two young Bluebirds who were properly dressed could not be seen. They had hidden. The three white ones had tried to hide, but they just couldn't.

"There, you see," said Welcome Robin. "They'll die young, or else they'll be the smartest Bluebirds in the country."

"That is what they're going to be," declared Mrs. Winsome in a most decided tone.

This Thing of Stealing a Friend's Friends

Winifred Black Bewildered by Some Queer Social Turns.

By WINIFRED BLACK

MRS. JOHN SMITH can't think why in the world Lucy Grey doesn't like her any more. Mrs. Smith has known Lucy Grey for years, oh, years and years, and last Fall she went to visit her.

Such a long visit—I wonder if they're ever very much of a success, those long visits. You can get so tired of the best persons in the world in just six weeks, can't you? And, dear me, how tired they can get of you.

The way you open a door, your habit of throwing your hat instead of laying it down carefully on the sofa. The things you won't eat and the things you like—well, anyhow, Mrs. Smith visited Lucy Grey and Lucy Grey had quite a lot of friends, and Mrs. Smith met them all.

There was a certain man and his wife that were particular friends of Lucy's, and Jane Smith took a great fancy to the woman and the man took a great fancy to Jane.

Smith. One day when Jane said she was going downtown on some business, somebody called Lucy up on the telephone unexpectedly and asked her downtown to lunch. Lucy went and there in a quiet corner of the cafe were Mr. and Mrs. Somebody and Jane, all as cozy and confidential as you please. They didn't see Lucy, and she didn't speak to them.

When she got home she didn't say a word about the luncheon to Jane, and—what do you think—Jane didn't say a word to Lucy.

Then one day Lucy was talking over the extension phone upstairs and Jane was on the phone downstairs, and before Lucy could ring off she recognized Mr. Somebody's voice—and Jane did not say a word about that either. And then Lucy began to notice that whenever Mr. and Mrs. Somebody came to call, either Mr. or Mrs. X managed to get Jane off into some corner and whisper to her about something.

The first thing Lucy knew, Jane had gone to live with the Somebodies, and she never told Lucy a thing about it till the day before she moved, and now Jane and the Somebodies are asking all of Jane's friends to their house—and not asking Lucy.

They wonder why Lucy is cool when she meets them. I don't wonder at all, do you?

What a queer idea it is to grab people's friends and their ideas and their ways and manners, and think that nobody will notice! No, it isn't exactly stealing, but somehow—

Well, I know one thing, I shall not invite Mrs. John Smith or anyone like her to come and make me a visit, either a long one or a short one—would you?

A School of Politics

By and for Women

As part of its summer program the Woman's National Democratic Club will conduct a training school in political organization at Washington for women during August, under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of Texas. This will be the school's second summer session.

A series of intensive courses embracing individual state problems, each covering a period of a week, will be offered. Enrollment is open to club members and to representatives of Democratic women's clubs throughout the country which cooperate with the national organization.

Other courses include "campaign machinery," "the Federal Government in action" and "public speaking."

Gin Bottle Adds Beauty
To Flower Arrangement

HOW a gin bottle was found to be the best medium for the arrangement of vines and flowers in an artistic home is told in the Woman's Home Companion in an article presenting new ideas in flower arrangement.

Sprays of woodbine presented the problem which was solved by the gin bottle, a relic of departed days. Mrs. Irina Kharbroff, experimenting, gently folded the leaves and inserted them in the bottle neck and found that they unfolded in the water, the dark leaves glowing with new life. The large, round bottle shone like crystal and its curves were enhanced by the curves of the stem and leaves inside. The leaves crowding the neck of the bottle were clipped and the remainder of the spray trailed outside about the base of the bottle.

The plan of thrusting leaves and stems into other glass receptacles gave equally satisfactory results, a wide-mouthed candy jar and an old-fashioned berry bowl lending themselves especially to the new arrangements.

A test of various levels for the receptacles was necessary to get the best effects, while placing the vessels upon a black Chinese base sometimes increased their effectiveness.

As well as bows, the bow-knot motifs promise to be popular. These are applied in transparent velvet in scrum tents, or in matching tones.

Perspire and be glad!

DON'T despise, don't check perspiration—that gift of nature. Perspiration is offensive only when it lingers—but why should it? Lava Soap, which destroys even the smell of onions, washes away perspiration odors in a jiffy.

Lava Soap lathers freely and richly, penetrates deeply into clogged pores, rinses quickly. A Lava Soap bath leaves you refreshed, stimulated, full of pep. Sold everywhere—6¢ and 10¢ a cake. Wm. Walke & Co., St. Louis.

Abie's Irish Rose

ANNE NICHOLS

AS THE STORY GOES.

When Abie Levy, former Corporal of the A. E. F. with a medal for courage, brings his bride, Rose-Mary, daughter of Patrick Murphy, contractor, to the home of his father, Solomon Levy, department store owner, in the Bronx, Solomon thinks he is entertaining a prospective wife for his Abie, "a nice Jewish girl." To gain his good will in preparation for the bitter truth, he has been told that the girl is Rose Murpheski, daughter of Solomon Murpheski. Now the colleen's conscience hurts her, thinking of what her father would do if he could hear.

XI.

THINKING of the name she had called her father—Solomon Murpheski for good old Patrick Murphy—Rose-Mary was next to tears. But just then Solomon and the two Cohens reentered the room, and she was forced to hide her emotion as best she could.

Solomon, as if suddenly conscious of his duties as host said: "Mrs. Cohen, will you please take Rosie to the spare room and let her clean up a bit?"

"Oh, I'll take her, Dad!" cried Abie, seizing Rose-Mary's arm. "You'll do noddings of her kind!" said Solomon Levy, sternly. "Mrs. Cohen knows this house, and she will take her."

"Come on, dearie," said Mrs. Cohen sweetly. "You probably feel as dirty as I do."

Rose-Mary fought back the giggle which this gem of tactfulness stirred in her, and said smiling:

"I think, perhaps, I would like to powder my nose and brush up a bit."

She touched Abie's hand as she left the room.

Abie, watching her go, was suddenly aware that his father was addressing him.

"Abie—him a hare—turn-taten!" Solomon Levy was saying. "Vell, my son, you're getting some sense, at last!"

"You like her, Dad?" Abie asked enthusiastically.

"She's a nice girl," Solomon temporized. "Jewish and efer-ting."

He paused. "How much money has she got?"

"Her father is comfortably fixed—that's all I know," said Abie unoffended by this inquiry.

Solomon drew up a chair.

"Und you fadder's vell fix-ed, too!" he suggested, winking knowingly, as he seated himself and leaned back comfortably.

"Do you really like her, Dad?"

"She's a wonderful girl," mused Solomon. "Didn't I told you to wait before, ven you brought all dose girls around—dose Christian girls?"

"Didn't I say denn, 'Abie, wait—you'll meet a nice little Jewish girl some day!' Didn't I say dode? And—Bahama, you're glad you waited, eh?"

"I'm certainly glad I waited for Rose-Mary," said Abie significantly.

"Please don't call her Rose-Mary!" cried Solomon. "She's Rosie!"

"All right, Rosie, then," conceded Abie. "But I don't care what she is—it's the girl I like. Not her religion."

"Sure—fine!" agreed Solomon Levy. "You don't care, but I care! Vell ham no Schickles in our family!"

He pounded the table to emphasize his words.

"You mean to say that if Rosie were a Christian you wouldn't like her?" asked Abie.

"But she isn't!" argued Solomon Levy.

"Oh, piffle!"

"Don't you pefle me!"

"I didn't mean it for you!"

"I von't be pefled? No, sir! Positiv! Elumglik mit dem zien meinen zoog ich azol zoogt en azol—shut up! Why don't you say something?"

"There is nothing to say," declared Abie quietly.

During this outburst of his father's he remained on his feet, engrossed in thought, but now he, too, drew up a chair.

"Why don't you marry her quеек—she's a nice little Jewish girl!" said Solomon Levy.

"Dad! Have I your consent?" asked Abie, straightening.

"Did you van ME to ask her for you?"

His father all but shouted the words. And as Abie shook his head, he added:

"If she says, yis, den I can start you in some kind of pizziness."

"I hate business!" ejaculated Abie, digging the toe of his shoe into the carpet.

"Ah—but you'll need pizziness when you start raising a family!" Solomon nodded wisely. "Esk Rosie! She's got common sense!"

"Say, Dad," Abie sat up apprehensively with a glance toward the hall door. "Don't you say anything to her about a family?"

"Why, Don't she believe in a family?"

"I don't know. I've never asked her."

"But vunce you are marry-ed, you can mek her change her mind—eh?"

Solomon nudged his blushing son in the ribs.

Tomorrow—Rose-Mary on parade.

A Hearty Diet List

By Josephine Huddleston

HOW would you like a nice diet list that consists of those ghostly extra pounds of flesh?

First, I'll give you an outline of the three daily meals, then a list of foods from which you may plan your menus.

Breakfast—One glass of orange juice, two thin slices of toast, coffee, tea or hot water. Lunch—Salad, two slices of toast, coffee, tea or lemonade. Dinner—Meat, vegetable, salad, toast or dark bread, coffee, tea or lemonade.

Only bran, whole-wheat, gluten, rye or diet breads "houl" be eaten. Pork in any form is fattening. Avoid eating the fat on any meat.

Eggs, fish, fowl, steak, lamb or veal chops, and meat dishes made from beef, veal or lamb, and roast beef, offer a wide variety of meats that may be eaten with perfect safety.

Among the non-fattening vegetables are carrots, spinach, green beans, peas, onions, turnips, cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, celery, radishes, asparagus, cucumbers, squash, kale, dandelion greens, beets and beet greens, oyster plant and Brussels sprouts.

Fresh fruits and stewed fruits with the exception of bananas, may be eaten. Stewed rhubarb, cranberry sauce, prunes, or apple sauce may be included in your breakfast menu if the toast, orange juice and coffee are not sufficient.

In making fresh fruit salads don't forget grapefruit. It makes a delightful salad, either by itself or mixed with other fruits. A little lemon juice also adds piquancy to the flavor of fruit salads.

Coffee, tea and lemonade should be sugarless. If you must have some sugar make it as little as possible. Cream is also forbidden! Butter and cream sauces are taboo and oil dressings should contain only a small portion of oil.

A list of forbidden foods are: Milk, cream, cheese, pork, ham, bacon, olive-oil in quantity, lard, maize, wheat, buckwheat, rice, oats, white bread, macaroni, sugar, candy, pastry of any kind, ice cream (although water ices may be eaten), green corn, bananas, grapes, unfermented grape juice, chestnuts, walnuts and raisins.

Camille's Apartment
Brings More Rent Now

Collectors of odd facts have discovered that the Paris apartment occupied by the famous lady of the camellias, whom Alexander Dumas immortalized, rents today for 12 times what it did in her lifetime.

Marie Duplessis, the original lady of the camellias, lived in an apartment of five rooms without bath on the Boulevard Malesherbes. During her occupancy in 1847, the apartment rented for 3200 francs a year, or about $130. The price was considered high. Today the same rooms rent for $1800 a year.

What wears the metal off your washboard?

Your hands? . . . your clothes? . . . your strength?

WASHBOARDS get your clothes clean, yes—but—washboards rub in back-aches and rub out clothes—they grate clothes clean! And your clothes wear out the washboard!

Chipso soaks clothes clean! There is not one backbreaking rub in it! There is not a threat of harm to the finest cottons and linens in a whole generous box of it.

With Chipso you get rich, quick-cleansing suds instantly by pouring hot water over white Chipso flakes. These Chipso suds last. They permeate your clothes. They dissolve the dirt. They soak it out. Then you squeeze the sudsy water through your clothes—rub bad spots lightly with your hands—rinse and wring!

That is a Chipso washing! Millions of women have discovered that a Chipso washday is half as long and so much easier. Wouldn't you like to try one?

The big blue-and-orange box at your grocer's contains so much Chipso that a washing will cost you four cents—or less!

PREMIER REVIEWS
COUNTRY'S EQUALITY

Discusses Results of Imperial Conference at Which Province's Status Was Defined.

by the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3.—Official Canada last night heard her sovereignty and independence, as a member of the British commonwealth, freely discussed, not only by the Prime Minister of the mother country but by the heir to the British throne. The occasion was a dinner in the Parliament building in honor of Canada's distinguished visitors, the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier Stanley Baldwin.

The Prince said the confederation of Canada was the clearest step taken on the road which has led to the conception and attainment of autonomous communities within the empire. The Prince described these communities as equal in status and marked by common allegiance to the Crown.

"Ambassador of Good Will."
There was a moment of deep emotion shown among the hearers of England's young "Ambassador of Good Will," as he said:

"Good Will," as he said, "is particularly the King's oldest son, the conception has a special importance, we can whatever part of the Empire may be I try always to keep in mind. The Crown stands above all distinctions of country, race and religion. It is his to mark the unity of which all such differences are transcendent.

"If some day it should fall to my lot to assume that high responsibility, I trust I may be found ready to do so."

When the Canadian he met in London, he declared, kept "him abreast with developments in this great country which is so bewilderingly swift."

He added he had lost no opportunity of keeping fresh those contacts which he had made in the last 10 years with all parts of the British Empire.

Baldwin's Address.
Baldwin dealt with the work of the imperial conference in London last year. He said that what it had was to define in a phrase the living relationship of all parts of the British Empire to one another and to begin to work out the practical applications of that relationship. The formula, he said, is founded on the equality of status of all the self governing parts of the Empire, and the unity of the whole Empire under the British crown.

"I have heard it said," he continued, "that the Prime Minister, 'that Canada needed no such charter of nationhood, because she possessed it already.' He said he would not venture an opinion, but he thought that one on which Canada alone could renounce, but other countries within the Empire found help in the strength of their position. Canada's Responsibility to the Empire," Baldwin summed up the efforts of the imperial conference in this manner in three words: Consideration, Cooperation, and Continuation. He said the view of the conference was that "no part of the Empire should henceforth act in isolation, for the powers which are likely to affect the Empire are likely to be counted first, what effects its past actions may have on the other parts of the Empire and without giving them a chance of expressing their views."

The major responsibility in matters of foreign affairs and defense, continued Baldwin, still rests on the government of Great Britain. "Canada's share of responsibility is growing," he proceeded, "but this diversity of function in administrative matters is largely a question of convenience and can be altered quickly or slowly according to changing circumstances."

Baldwin celebrated his sixtieth birthday today. There were references to the event at the dinner last night.

Italian King Toasts Fued.
The Associated Press. — King Victor Emmanuel entertained King Fuad of Egypt at a banquet at the Quirinal last night. Rising to drink the health of Fuad, the Italian King expressed the joy of the Italian people over the visit of a sovereign of a country closely related to Italy by its geographic position as well as cultural and commercial relations. "He then drank the welfare of an independent Egypt and to the tightening of the bonds of friendship and collaboration between the two nations."

Smoke.

The smoke man from the Citizens' League does not have to go to the top of the Bell tower to look for smoke. Let him come to 4466 Neosho street and he can see six stacks smoking all day and night. He knows about these stacks for I talked to him about them. He also has the signatures of persons in the neighborhood under a protest against this nuisance. We all burn coke in our neighborhood and still we have to put up with a nuisance like that. Our beds are full of soot and our lungs are full of gas. The Smoke Commissioner and the Citizens' League say they are sorry for us, but that does not remedy our health.

The Old Standby Bunk.

ONE must admire your mild editorial temper in answering one Edgar R. Reed of Dayton, O., about the Kellogg-Coolidge imbroglio. Not unlike the professional man-killers in the day of France during the Riffian war, Mr. Reed quotes the old standby bunk "in defense of capital and industry for the good of civilization." Shades of George Washington and of Lexington! Our beds are full of soot and our lungs are full of gas. The American people stand by and let murder in their name be committed?

Years for the Old-Time Reporter.

WHAT content of the old reporter who was content to give a pen picture of what happened, as truthful as a photograph and let the reader form his own conclusions? After reading the reports of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, I fear that he is no more.

There were two kinds of reporters writing of that fight. The one had picked Dempsey to win, the other bet on Sharkey. Everything the reporter saw or heard was cited in support of his preconceived opinion. The one wrote of Dempsey in the pink of condition, the superman of old, active, alert, deadly. The other likened the former champion to an old superannuated horse, heavy and spavined, who was licked in the first round and given the decision in the seventh by the partiality or unwelcome of the referee. If the crowd was heard from, they cheered one's favorite and booed the other. The writer was like the man who asked his friend: "Did the girl that just passed laugh at you or smile at me?" All we writers that way or it is only the unfortunates who write.

What the Johnson Law Has Done.

AN admirer compliments you on your editorial "Bad News for Nordic Bonds" and then swings from the heels of the Johnson immigration law, seeking it with three adjectives—stupid, cruel and inhuman. He gets quite emotional about the unhappy lot of husbands and fathers who, having come here and toiled and saved, are unable to bring over their loved ones because we have bolted the door.

That this law has worked serious hardships cannot be denied. That it has been administered in many instances with prime pignificence is also undeniable. But this law has tremendous items on the credit side and, moreover, it has enunciated a national policy from which no administration is likely soon to depart. The present American way of life is due principally to this law—not to Ford, not to prohibition and not to that pinch-hitting alibi, the World War. This law has shut off the once inexhaustible supply of cheap labor with which capitalists of industry beat down wages, maintained un-American living standards and filled the melting pot to dangerous overflowing.

The Post-Dispatch reveals its sanity in scoffing occasionally at the Nordic spouting and alarms of the Lathrop Stoddard and Madison Grant schools. But with all due respect to all the colors in the chromatic scale of humanity, this country is a Nordic product; this civilization of ours is of Nordic derivation; this economic opportunity which the United States offers—with sane restrictions which, in my judgment, will increase with the years—is a conception of Nordic genius.

Those are facts against which your facetious cannot prevail. Those are facts which your courageous intelligence might now and then take cognizance of.

MR. COOLIDGE'S RENUNCIATION.

Mr. Coolidge has ended the widespread expectation that he would try for a third term by formally announcing that he will not do so. At a time when the conviction that he would use his singular power to break the third term tradition had virtually eliminated every other aspirant to the Republican nomination in 1928, the President has achieved a real political coup by blandly announcing that he will not run.

To say that the country is surprised is putting it mildly. It is fairly flabbergasted. Yet there was always upon the side of unbelief the great desideratum of good taste. Some time, perhaps, the third term tradition will be broken; but Mr. Coolidge is not the man to break it. He probably knows this, and if he gave it precedence over all other considerations it is greatly to his credit. The man who will break the third term tradition must stand in relation to the country's necessity in some such fashion as Lincoln did in 1864. It will not happen at a time such as this, when there is scarcely a cloud upon the national horizon, when we are at peace with the world and one another, and when we are easily the most prosperous and happiest people on earth. To have forced himself upon the country under such circumstances would have convicted him forever of being more politician than President, and this indictment he has happily escaped.

Mr. Coolidge was never happier in his economy of words than he was in announcing his withdrawal from the lists. "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," served his purpose, and it serves ours. We know now that the great Coolidge machine, together with the prodigious financial resources which such a government as he has given us could command for the purpose of re-election, are not to dominate and demoralize the campaign. The Democrats, powerless against Coolidge and his solid business bloc, its control of the radio and most of the press, are to receive in the prospect of having a chance. The farmers, who bore Mr. Coolidge a deserved grudge, will rise from the despair of opposing him to the faint promise of getting somebody who is more sympathetic with their needs. The Republicans, embarrassed by his omnipotence, their mouths stopped by recollection of how his innocence saved them from the scandals of the Harding regime, and fearful of the consequences to the party of a third term victory, are in the ecstasy of a balloon ridden of its last sack of sand.

In brief, and in toto, the renunciation clears the political skies like sunshine after a thundershower. How pleasant a person have 10 little words made of Charles G. Dawes! What a rainbow of promise is that which Frank O. Lowden beholds from the melancholy quiet of his Illinois farm! What a smile is that which Gov. Alfred E. Smith looks out upon this troubled world from the executive office of the best-governed State in the union! And how lightly the liberated spirit of Herbert Hoover bursts out of the slough of merely doing good to others into the pleasing possibility of everybody doing something for Herbert!

At any rate the thing is settled, which must be a relief to Mr. Coolidge as well as to the country. We are at liberty now to speculate upon the thousand and one political possibilities loosed by his word, while he can give himself over wholly to his little mild west show in the Black Hills.

Aviators can hardly keep a straight face over this piffing business at Geneva.

THE LAGGARD OF THE LINKS.

Golf admittedly has all the 57 varieties of afflictions, agonies, sorrows and despairs, but the game's most insufferable pest is the laggard of the links. He comes in all ages, complexions, costumes and addictions. There is the chap, for instance, whose address is as protracted as an old-fashioned sermon. He invariably goes through his ritual of waggles, never omitting the tiniest squirm. It is on the tee that the waggle displays his finest geologic form. But he is glacially deliberate on the fairways, and when a frantic trajectory deposits his ball in the rough he devours time like a monster. Finally, in the flight of the cone he gets to the green, and there his performance makes strong, rugged men break down and chatter incoherently. Old Procrastination, after counting every blade of grass between the hole and the ball, after removing infinitesimal obstructions, after microscopically surveying the bland and innocent terrain he proceeds at last to take his stance. Is the eternity of waiting ended? It has hardly begun. Eventually he makes the stroke—eventually but not now.

There is at least one of those abominations in every club, with several other offenders only a degree or two less reprehensible. And they have become such a nuisance that the question of penalizing the dilatory player is agitating official circles from which come the rules. There is but one way effectively to deal with the golfer who continuously holds up the course. He should be hanged, drawn, quartered, cremated and buried a hundred fathoms deep.

When more widows and orphans are made, intervention will be responsible.

THE PROSPERITY ISSUE.

One problem which the Democrats should settle before the 1928 campaign is how to meet the issue of Coolidge-made prosperity, upon which the Republicans will undoubtedly base their campaign for re-election.

We hope the Democrats will not be foolish enough to deny that some sort of prosperity actually exists. Inasmuch as every survey seems to indicate that it does. A recent one by the National Association of Manufacturers, the results of which are published in the organization's Pocket Bulletin for July, indicates that the industries of the nation are now operating, and are likely to continue to operate for a while, on more than 80 per cent of their employment capacity.

The Democrats might, to be sure, assert that the Republican claim to credit for these conditions was unfounded, and that Coolidge really had nothing to do with bringing them about. This would undoubtedly be sound enough, but it might still fail to convince the electorate.

There is a better method than either of these by which the Democrats might challenge the Republicans on this issue, a method vastly more sound than the first and much more effective than the second. It lies in showing that the country is not nearly so prosperous as it might be, were the privileges which certain interests enjoy under the Coolidge dispensation to be abolished. How much more prosperous, for instance, would the American public be if the exactions of the Fordney-McCumber tariff were abolished, and the public permitted once more to buy in a cheap market!

This, it would appear, is the way to meet the prosperity issue. There is no use trying to ignore it or to deny it, and even less use in endeavoring to say that it is unimportant. Everybody likes prosperity and wants as much of it as he can secure. What the Democrats ought to do is show the public that it would have more real prosperity if all the entrenched privileges which go with Republican rule were heaved into the ash can.

GREAT BRITAIN AND GENEVA.

In an address to the Liberal Summer School at Cambridge Lloyd George charged the Baldwin Government with responsibility for conducting the Geneva conference to an "inevitable fiasco." He even declared that England, if unjustly attacked, could look to the United States Navy for support.

Not so many years ago such an assertion by a former British Premier would have made the chancelleries of Europe buzz and compelled royal personages to adjourn showy exhibitions for discussions of momentous questions. In the inspired pens of Europe's authoritative political commentators the implication of alliance would, when the need arose, blaze forth an accomplished fact. Engaging historians, prying into the arcana of Washington and London State Departments would discover the secret treaty and report the substance of the pact.

Today Lloyd George's rhetorical flight is accepted as an assumption which is attributed to the speaker's flair for the theatrical. That, we believe, will be the first reaction. Reflection may give this hands-across-the-sea prophecy a better quality. Reflection may wonder what might not have been achieved at Geneva had Great Britain entered the conference in the sincere belief that she was in the company of friends—that on the other side of the table sat one friend with whom "war is unthinkable."

None of the conferees arrived at Geneva in that faith. There is ineptitude enough to go around. But England came as a trader, seemingly determined to drive the best possible bargain. The attitude of her chief envoy was almost that of a superior disposed to close an argument with a bang of the mailed fist. Why the bellicose Bridgeman was chosen for such a task when the urbane Balfour was available we do not know. And though Lloyd George's criticisms be discounted on the grounds of politics and temperament, it is undeniable that the Baldwin Government frequently displays a genius for blundering.

We are waiting patiently for a raft of new stories beginning, "It seems there was a Rumanian named Mike—"

THE MASTER OF THE MOUND.

Baseball's Grand Old Man, Walter Johnson, celebrated yesterday the completion of his twentieth year as a big league player. "The Big Train," "The Fireball King," "The Old Master"—these sobriquets testify to the impress he has made during that long career of shooting 'em over the plate. Outstanding in a record which bulges with unique accomplishments is the fact that his whole major league service has been with one team. He is the best loved player in America. In Washington, where he has become an institution comparable almost with the Monument, his name will be remembered and his deeds recited after nine-tenths of those who are making the country's laws have been forgotten. No breath of scandal has ever touched him.

In the battle between the Washington Senators and the New York Giants for the world championship in 1924, the Senators were as much the favorites of the public as the Cardinals were last year. That was because the country was rooting for Johnson. And when the Old Master, summoned to the mound in the fateful seventh game, pitched his team to victory, what a paean arose!

Johnson's speed is not so dazzling as of old, but it still has potency. "With proper care and rest," he says, "I think I can go in and win a game now and then." If the lovers of baseball throughout the country could have their wish, he would go on piling up records through another 20 years.

Old form: Slower than the seven-year itch.

New form: Slower than a street car downtown.

AN ECONOMIC FANTASY.

The problem of how public utilities should be valued for rate-making purposes—whether by the "reproduction cost new" or the prudent investment formula—continues to make news. On the same day we find reports of the Union Pacific's contention that the (approximately) $540,000,000 valuation placed on its properties by the Interstate Commerce Commission should be almost doubled, and of the rejected application of the St. Louis United Railways before the State Public Service Commission for an increase from $52,000,000, the present tentative valuation, to at least $75,000,000.

Figures are dull. Neither of the two quoted items stirs the pulse like the story, for example, of Dempsey's killing left hook to the jaw. But under the statistical surface of the news about valuation is a story of capital importance to every user of street cars and of trains, to every purchaser of gas and electricity—which is to say, to every person in the United States. It is a story that is going to take on added importance and interest with each fresh translation of it into the concrete terms of passenger fares, freight rates, and gas and electricity bills.

Meantime, pending developments, we submit by way of illustration the following problem:

Mr. Ford is about to adapt his machinery to the manufacture of a new type of car. Thereafter, it will take a good deal more to reproduce an old Ford car than the car originally cost. Say it would take $1000 as against an original price of $500. Is the man who carries passengers in the old car at 5 cents entitled therefore to jump the fare to 10 cents?

The answer is that nobody would think of duplicating an old car when a better one is to be had for less money. And no more would anybody think of duplicating any railway system or any gas or electric plant exactly as it stands today. Yet the assumption that such duplication would take place is the cornerstone of the whole "reproduction cost new" theory. If any more fantastic economic proposition has been advanced in all the ages, we have not heard of it.

On the other hand, of course, the office may choose the man.

HOPPED OFF.

THE AMERICAN DREYFUS CASE

By RALPH COGHLAN
Of the Post-Dispatch Editorial Staff.

IN the fall of 1919 and the spring of 1920, the Department of Justice, aided by an army of spies, snipers, private detectives and agents provocateurs, was conducting a man-hunt. It was looking for just such a man as Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco.

At that time Vanzetti was a familiar character in the little Italian and Portuguese town of North Plymouth, Mass. He was to be seen every morning pushing his fish cart down the main street, ringing his bell, exchanging pleasantries with the housewives as he peddled his eels, haddock and cod. Vanzetti was an anarchist and was well-known as such not only by his countrymen but by private detectives and employers of labor, who referred to him as a radical agitator and trouble maker. He was blacklisted by the factories because some years before, while working for the cordage works, he had tried to organize a strike.

Sacco was operating an edging machine in the Three K's shoe factory at Stoughton, Mass. Sacco was a young Italian who came to this country in 1908 when he was 17. An extraordinarily hard worker and home-loving man, he found time to go to the Circolo di Studi Sociali, an anarchist club where he absorbed ideas that were not considered au fait in A. Mitchell Palmer's select circle. Sacco became interested in the radical newspaper, Il Proletario, and engaged in amateur theatricals in plays on revolutionary subjects. He, like Vanzetti, became known as a red agitator and trouble maker. Sacco and Vanzetti first met, they were on their way to Mexico primarily to avoid the draft, secondly to found a communist colony. Neither believed in war. Both were strongly visionary, thinking that somehow this world might be made into a Utopia.

Such is the background of the two men who were arrested on a Brockton street car on May 5, 1920, in connection with the murder and robbery of a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree, Mass., the month before. Neither Sacco nor Vanzetti knew what charge was to be placed against him. They continued to use their own weapons they had in hand, to rattle their own wind-up toys, to harangue the public in the streets and to write threatening letters. It may not have been magnificent, but it was war. And while the fish-peddler and the shoe-worker lay under the shadow of the gallows, every consular agent in foreign parts faced the danger of being punished for the judicial error of the courts of Massachusetts, and the wretched tyrannies of A. Mitchell Palmer.

Thus we read of more demonstrations in Paris, of another attack on the Embassy, of the destruction of the monument to the French and American armies, of a protest from Moscow, of a bombing of the Embassy at Buenos Aires, of a bombing at Montevideo, of disturbances at Mexico City, of an appeal for mercy from Germany, of demonstrations in Switzerland and Tampico, Mexico. And even from far-off Tokyo came news that special police were guarding the Embassy following a visit by a committee from the Black League protesting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

After the seventh motion for a new trial had been denied by Judge Thayer and his decision had been confirmed by the Massachusetts Supreme Court, a fresh outbreak tions as to their political beliefs and Sacco gave a long and rambling dissertation on his radicalism which was of no help to him before a Judge like Webster Thayer and a jury of Norfolk countians who were at that moment imbued with the hysteria of the time, namely, that all reds, radicals and agitators must be "exported or exterminated if this nation was to survive."

If their political notions worked their downfall, they also acted in their behalf. Who can doubt that Sacco and Vanzetti would have been quietly burned in the electric chair a long time ago had not the spectacular world-wide agitation for their release transformed this case into a cause celebre? A local movement among the accused men's friends resulted in raising money for their defense, and word was spread quickly that they were being prepared for their political opinions. Almost immediately there began a series of violent outbreaks and demonstrations that focused the attention of the whole world upon the case.

One of the first of these happened in October, 1921, after the men had been sentenced to death, when the American Embassy in Paris was bombed and Ambassador Herlick narrowly escaped with his life. The explosion, which injured one member of the household, followed several letters about the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Sylvia Pankhurst immediately took up the cause in London, and in Rio de Janeiro and Brest demonstrations were held. Three days after the Paris Embassy incident, another bomb was thrown in Paris during a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting, injuring seven gendarmes. There followed protests from Sweden, from Uruguay where a strike was called, from Havana, from Lieben where the American Consulate was bombed, from Buenos Aires, where the medical students of La Plata National College refused to attend classes, and from various parts of the United States.

While intellectual liberalism in this country began to marshal its forces to swoop down upon Massachusetts, Sacco and Vanzetti's workmen comrades throughout the world were flung in their interest. They continued to use their own weapons they had in hand, to rattle their own wind-up toys, to harangue the public in the streets and to write threatening letters. It may not have been magnificent, but it was war. And while the fish-peddler and the shoe-worker lay under the shadow of the gallows, every consular agent in foreign parts faced the danger of being punished for the judicial error of the courts of Massachusetts, and the wretched tyrannies of A. ## LIGHT LYRICS FOR WARM WEATHER.

Despite the lovely verses to the maid a man might gaze, the love lyrics are not new. No poet ever penned a word for those who love in vain: The broken heart must bear alone its pain, as best it may. And sing as well the praises of the one who gained the day: The victor's crown with laurel, and the loser, all alone. Must bear, with none to cheer him, pain his human hearts have borne: Hence, while you cheer the Yankee in his hour of glory, think of those who cheer to greet: Sing Boston's gallant Red Sox, too, for some must also run.

It ever is our custom those who win with cheers to greet. Alone, and all forgot by us are those who taste defeat; But even as the victors we accord an honored place. Let's bear in mind the also-rans as well have made the race: Then while we drain the victor's cup and sing the plaudits din A toast as well to those who strive, although they never win: For credit due each honest task that one man has done Sing Boston's gallant Red Sox, too, for some must also run.

The movie actors have agreed to display temperance. This probably means that the villain, when fatally wounded, will act as though he had sat on a toilet for only 60 feet of film in place of 100.

Considering the conflicting views of political prophets, it may be necessary for the people to vote to determine upon the next President.

o. protests came from all parts of the world. Wagonloads of petitions for their pardon were deposited on the threshold of Gov. Fuller, and these petitions held the names of some of the most distinguished men and women in the United States and Europe.

What was looked upon in the beginning as a freakish display of hoodlumism on the part of alien radicals, revolutionaries and international riff-raff became recognized as a great humanitarian plea on behalf of two humble men who were being executed to death because of their political opinions. What Felix Frankfurter called "The pitiful case of Sacco and Vanzetti," what Richard Washburn Child called "A tragedy of errors," had at last assumed human proportions.

A fish-peddler and a shoe-worker were destined to become symbols of personal humanity.

RETAILERS TO ATTEND BANQUET AND OPERA

Convention Hears Store Management Discussion by Visiting Merchants.

With approximately 300 out-of-town buyers in attendance, opening sessions of the eighth semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association were held yesterday in the ballroom of Hotel Statler.

Delegates to the convention, during the time they are in the city, will visit wholesale houses of Washington, D. C., where it is expected they will buy a volume of all merchandise running into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Three speakers addressed the sessions yesterday, each representing some different phase of modern merchandising. Otto Cloud of Macy, Ind., told how his store must be conducted in his village a profitable business in his village of 22 population; Harold L. Post of Appleton, Wis., discussed successful operation of a store in a town of 20,000; sales manager Edgar Gengenbach, sales manager of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Co., based his address on the operation of a large department in a metropolitan center.

House Organ is Town's Paper. Cloud told of the close personal touch his store must maintain with the people of the town and surrounding districts, sending them birthday cards and keeping a close record of all events in the community such as sickness, death, births and accidents. So thoroughly is this job done, Post said, that his store now publishes a house organ each week, which serves as the town's "newspaper." Post and Gengenbach discussed the necessity of more capable store operation in larger communities. Post characterizing modern business as the "age of super-competition."

Banquet and Opera. Registration of visiting merchants continued today at Hotel Statler, and officials of the association were hopeful that the number of merchants entertained last season—1335—will be equalled before the closing sessions of the present convention, which will continue through Friday. The visitors will be guests at a banquet at Hotel Statler this evening, after which they will be taken to Municipal Theater to see this week's attraction, "Katinka."

BUILDING PERMITS NEARLY DOUBLE THOSE OF LAST YEAR

Increase Not as Great as It Seems as Figures Include New Municipal Structures.

While permits for buildings costing $6,022,172 were issued in St. Louis in July, compared with $3,456,711 in the corresponding month of last year, construction activity here is not so much greater than that of a year ago as the figures would indicate. Recently, for the first time, the cost of structures being erected by the city was included in the permits, and the records for last month contain permits for the $1,000,000 Municipal Service Building and $1,250,000 Police Headquarters under construction.

Last month 931 permits were issued, compared with 1073 in July, 1926. Of last month's construction, $457,730 was for alterations, the new for new structures. Included in the month's permits were 108 brick dwellings to cost $448,300, and 77 apartment houses to cost $274,300, providing altogether housing accommodations for 435 families.

NEW TOWNSHIP TO INAUGURATE MISSISSIPPI SERVICE AUG. 15

Craft Built at Dubuque for Shipping on Upper River Is Bound for St. Louis.

The new township S. S. Thorpe, who is on his way to St. Louis from the yard at Dubuque, Ia., will start back north on the Mississippi River on Aug. 15, marking the official opening of the new Upper Mississippi barge line. The command of Capt. Percy Swain, left Dubuque yesterday afternoon and was to make stops at Clinton and Davenport, Ia., to take on passengers interested in the new service. J. C. Goodsell, superintendent of the line, said 1,000,000 bushels of export grain await the upper river barges, which will ply between Minneapolis and St. Louis. A canvas of business to be expected was completed a few days ago in the vicinity of Minneapolis.

RAIN PREVENTS OPERA

Tickets for Last Night Exchangeable for Future Performance. The Municipal Theater's presentation of "Katinka" was called off last night on account of rain. The thermometer registered 56 at 9 p. m. and even had the rain stopped a performance would have been trying on cast and patrons. Tickets are exchangeable at the Arcade Building box office for any future performance.

Closing of European Mails. Next mails for Europe close at the main postoffice in St. Louis as follows:

Full European mail, except parcel post, by ordinary mail, 9 p. m. Thursday; by air mail to New York, 3:30 p. m. Friday.

TAILORS TO ATTEND BANQUET AND OPERA

Convention Hears Store Management Discussion by Visiting Merchants.

With approximately 800 out-of-town buyers in attendance, opening sessions of the eighth semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association were held yesterday in the ballroom of Hotel Statler.

Delegates to the convention, during the time they are in the city, will visit wholesale houses of Washington avenue, where it is expected they will buy a volume of fall merchandise running into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Three speakers addressed the sessions yesterday, each representing some different phase of modern merchandising. Otto Cloud of Chicago, Ind., told how his store is conducted in order to do a profitable business in his village of 110 population; Harold L. HEARING ON ACCEPTANCE OF BID FOR U. R. AUG. 12
City Will Oppose Offer of Partial Settlement of Past Due Mill Tax.

Special Master William L. Igoe has recommended to Federal Court that the bid of the St. Louis Public Service Co. of $49,600,000 for the property of the United Railways be approved. The public sale was held Monday. The receivership into which the company was plunged in 1919 will be terminated if the sale is approved.

Hearing on the Special Master's report will be held Aug. 12. At that time the City of St. Louis will oppose settlement of the past due mill tax which, with interest, amounts to approximately $2,400,000, upon the basis of one-third cash offered to general creditors.

In contrast with the purchase price of $49,600,000, the company is asking that its property be valued at not less than $18,000,000 by the Public Service Commission for the purpose of fixing fares.

REGULAR SHIP-TO-SHORE AIR MAIL SERVICE PLANNED

Official Says Post May Cut Trans-Atlantic Time to Three Days.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Clarance Chamberlin's successful experimental flight from the steamship Leviathan 120 miles at sea to the shore with mail Monday marks the beginning of a service which eventually may reduce the time of the Atlantic crossing to less than three days, in the opinion of W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general.

David A. Burke, general manager of the United States Lines, also is confident that the feat will lead to a shortening of trans-Atlantic trips by one day or two. He expressed this opinion in a letter to Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board.

Glover declared Chamberlin had brought nearer the consummation of postoffice department plans looking eventually to the establishment of regular ship-to-shore and shore-to-ship service for trans-Atlantic mail.

FOUR INDIAN CHIEFS INVITE PRESIDENT TO RESERVATION

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, Ia., Aug. 3.—Four rapid-blooded Indian chiefs of the Sioux tribe, dressed in ceremonial robes, were received yesterday by President Coolidge. They were Thin Elk, Little Hawk, Pretty Bird and Phelix Crazy Bull.

Together with C. M. Ziebach, superintendent of the Rosebud Indian Agency, they invited Mr. Coolidge to visit them. The group was presented by Senator Norbeck. The President also received Chief Justice Dwight Campbell of the South Dakota Supreme Court and his son Dwight Jr. Rapid City, presented Mr. Coolidge with a vest trimmed in rattle snake skin.

BONES OF WHALE THAT LIVED 5,000,000 YEARS AGO FOUND

Petrified Vertebrae of Primary Mammal Discovered in British Columbia.
By the Associated Press.
Sooke, B. C., Aug. 3.—The fossilized vertebrae of a primary whale of the Miocene period which lived about 5,000,000 years ago have been discovered by Prof. Homer P. Little, head of the Department of Geology of Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

The discovery was made in the fossil beds of Sooke Harbor about 25 miles from Victoria in the course of excavation work being carried on by a summer geological party of Princeton University of which Prof. Little is a member. The fossilized vertebrae were of a type of whale new to science, it was said, and was the early type from which the mammal whales of modern times have evolved.

Crowned Bard of Elsteddford.
By the Associated Press.
HOLYHEAD, Wales, Aug. 3.—Caradoc Pritchard, a journalist of Bethesda, Wales, has been crowned bard of the Elsteddford for 1927, with picturesque rites performed within a circle of stone. This feature of the annual Welsh festival of song and poetry yesterday, however, lost something in color because Pritchard declined to make "a silly ass" of himself by wearing the ornamental robe with which the winning bard is usually decorated. Pritchard, who is only 22 years old, and the youngest competitor ever to win the bardic crown, wrote to the "Archdruid" before the crown, refusing to wear the robe. The journalist declared that he would be ashamed to appear even as crowned bard of the Elsteddford in such a garment.

$100,000 for Unfortunate Children.
By the Associated Press.
MADISON, Wis., Aug. 3.—Wisconsin will spend $100,000 to give her crippled children a chance to receive special educational and physical training in their home public schools. Under a bill which Gov. Zimmerman signed yesterday, transportation to and from school is provided, as well as special monetary assistance that may be recommended by physicians.

MRS. J. LUCAS TURNER WILL BE BURIED FRIDAY MORNING

Funeral of 1903 V. F. Queen Killed in Auto Accident to Be at Cathedral.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. Lucas Turner, formerly of St. Louis, who was killed Monday when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by an interurban street car near Milwaukee, will be at 9 a. m. Friday at the St. Louis Cathedral. She will be buried in Calvary Cemetery beside her husband, who died in Milwaukee in 1925.

Mrs. Turner, as Miss Lucille Manette Chouteau, was Veiled Prophet Queen in 1903. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Pierre Chouteau, and a brother, who are coming from their home at Cambridge, Mass., for the funeral, and by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin, who are returning from Rye Beach, N. H., where they were spending the summer.

COOLIDGE'S WORD CREATES STIR IN MISSOURI CIRCLES

Political Leaders Discern Opportunity to Take Dominant Part in Selecting Republican Candidate.

Missouri and St. Louis Republican leaders snatched the cool August air today with the zest of newly awakened hope. They saw, in President Coolidge's announcement, the prospect that there would be a real contest in next year's national convention, and they were determined that Missouri should be a factor in that contest.
 As important a factor, they dared to hope, as in the convention of 1920, but without the unhappy incidents that then resulted from the crude methods of fund-disbur-sers and receptive delegates.

Some of them took a canny
 "show me" attitude toward the President's announcement, and held that he might later "choose" to get back into the race, or might be forced into it. But even with this view, they considered that yesterday's statement, for the present, changed everything. It opened up the prospect that Missouri's delegates, many, it skillfully handled, be made a rich source of patronage for the State and city organizations in the next few years.

Hadley Suggested as Candidate.
 National Committeeman Clements, in a statement for publication and in telephone messages to several persons, suggested that Missouri present as its candidate former Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, chancellor of Washington University. Several others endorsed this suggestion.

Their view appeared to be that Hadley would be a "favorite son" to whom the State Republicans could rally with enthusiasm, and that if his nomination should prove impossible, the State delegation could, at the strategic time, go over to some other aspirant, or could join in a movement to present the renomination of President Coolidge.

Committeeman Clements, in his statement, expressed uncertainty whether the President is finally out of the race, but discussed no other candidate save Hadley.

Chancellor Hadley, in Minneapolis today, said he thinks the statement of President Coolidge will test public sentiment for the President in spite of his disinclination to run. As to whether the President would accept the nomination if "forced" on him—"well, you know what Gov. Lowden said, that no man in history has run away from the presidency."

Gov. Baker was skeptical as to the President's being out of the running, but remarked that Speaker Nicholas Longworth had been "favorably mentioned," though he did not wish to commit himself at present to Longworth or anyone else. Expressions doubting the actuality of the President's withdrawal, and mentioning other candidates without definite commitments were made by Lieut. Gov. Bennett, State Auditor Thompson, Chairman
 Brown of the Missouri Public Service Commission, City Chairman
 Remmers and Circuit Clerk
 Schmoll.

Statements obtained by the Post-Dispatch follow:
Clements Favors Hadley.
 Dr. E. B. CLEMENTS, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri—"What does 'choose' mean? It probably means if his party does not want him for a candidate at the next election, he is willing to get out. If Coolidge were a candidate again, I think he would be nominated. I really don't know whether it means he is out of the race. If he is the next man in line for the President, as I see it, is Herbert S. Hadley, chancellor of Washington University, our former Governor.

"He has my personal support and should have the support of every Missourian. The nomination of Chancellor Hadley would be the greatest thing that could happen for the party and the State. He would be a credit to the State and the nation. It would be no harder work for him in the presidency than running his school, and it would be a place more to his taste.
 They said, when he became Governor that he did not have the physical strength to hold the office, but he came out of it better than ever and he would do it again. If President Coolidge is out of the running, my choice is Herbert Hadley."

Praise for Both Dawes and Hadley
GEORGE H. WILLIAMS (Republican), former United States Senator—"If the President means he will not be a candidate in 1928 and will not accept what is popularly thought to be a third term, then, of course, the situation becomes very interesting. The statement that he does not choose to be a candidate could be interpreted to mean 'not my will but thine be done.'"

"The one under the limelight today is Vice President Charles G. Dawes. I say he is universal because he is so many-sided and has done so many big things. He is the highest type of business man and his wonderful achievements in the international field are almost past belief. He understands the farm problem better than any other one man because he understands all economic applications of it."

"Missouri has a fine prospect in the person of Gov. Hadley. He missed being President by a hair."

It's Outstanding!

In every line of business there's a leader that stands out from the rank and file. In the wrapping paper business it's MOSINEE. It is standardized, dependable, mill-branded, guaranteed. And economical.
 Naturally it stands well with manufacturers who insist on these qualities in their own products—and want a Wrapping Paper that always delivers the goods.

Halitosis easy to prevent

Nothing retards you in business, courtship and society like a real case of Halitosis (unpleasant breath). It is a continual offense—and needless, too.

Since you, yourself, can never tell when you have Halitosis, the only way to be sure of not offending is to rinse the mouth with Listerine every day—especially before any close personal contact.

$\frac{1}{3}$
 Had Halitosis
 80 streetcar conductors, meeting the public at close range every day of the year, said that about one person out of three offends by halitosis. Who should know better than they?
 Face to face evidence

So effective, it destroys even the powerful onion odor, Listerine makes short work of milder, but no less unpleasant odors arising in the mouth. It's a good thing to keep a bottle handy in home and office.

Do you know the right thing to do on every social occasion? Our Listerine every day—especially before any close personal contact. Use the coupon.

No more embarrassing perspiration odor

[Millions keep fresh by using this gentle, purifying toilet soap]

EVEN closest friends hesitate to mention so intimate a matter as perspiration odor.

Although we notice the faintest hint of odor in others, strangely enough we ourselves can't always tell when we offend.

Thus, if we want to be sure of never committing this unpardonable offense, we all need to guard against it constantly—especially now, when hotter weather and active sports bring on perspiration so quickly.

Yet it's so easy to keep free from embarrassing odor—use Lifebuoy! A delightful toilet soap so refreshing that millions bathe with it daily. It purifies pores all over the body—gives freedom from perspiration odor.

Healthier complexions, too Lifebuoy's mild, antiseptic lather keeps complexions clear, fresh and glowing with health by purifying the skin.
Better still, this same purifying lather helps protect against sickness. It removes germs from hands, as well as dirt, yet it is so soothing and gentle your skin will love it.

Its very scent reassures

Lifebuoy is so different from other toilet and bath soaps that even its scent is different. Not a perfume, but a clean, pleasantly hygienic scent which tells you Lifebuoy gives greater protection.

Even before you've finished your first cake, you'll be enthusiastic over this cleanest of all soap scents, which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

Without its antiseptic, Lifebuoy would still be a wonderful toilet soap
—but you wouldn't get the added protection.

Extra protection—free

Lifebuoy assures greater health protection and freedom from body odor —yet costs no more, probably less, than the soap you now use. Lifebuoy is orange-red, a big generous cake. Get some today, wherever soap is sold.

Is your face drawn and pinched?
Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth?
All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so of-

COOLIDGE'S WORD CREATES STIR IN MISSOURI CIRCLES
Continued from Page 22

breadth and he is sound on every thing.
"Mr. Coolidge has made a great President. His watchword has been 'I don't think he cares for the nomination.' In the conduct of our financial affairs."

Lowden Choice of Kiel.
FORMER MAYOR HENRY W.
KIEL, Chairman of the Republican State Committee—"I am surprised at the President's announcement. I was certain he intended to be an active candidate for another term.
Eliminating President Coolidge, I favor the nomination of Former Gov. Lowden of Illinois. Lowden is an ideal candidate, due to his advocacy of farm legislation he will be heartily supported by the farmer and, in addition, has the confidence of the progressive business men of the country."

Not Out of Running, Says Baker.
GOV. BAKER—"President Cool-idge's statement does not take him out of the running at all. In fact,
I believe he will be the nominee, unless he refused to accept. I should hate to say who would be the next best man, but if the President does not accept renomination, Nicholas Longworth has been favorably mentioned and might figure strongly as a candidate. But if Gov. Hadley wishes to run, Missouri should rally to his support."

Opens Up Field, Says Remmers.
OLIVER T. REMMERS, chairman of the Republican City Committee—"It looks like President Coolidge carefully chose that word 'chose.' He might be expressing his personal wish and yet be in a mood to yield to a demand that he run. Coolidge probably would appeal to the convention delegates, because he has that something about him which creates a feeling of confidence."

"After reading what Chief Justice Taft had to say about the trials and tribulations of a President, I am wondering if this statement was not prompted by the burdens Mr. Coolidge is carrying.
Anyway, his statement means a lot of potential candidates will be brightening up their lightning rods soon."

"I don't know who the Missouri delegates will line up for if President Coolidge is definitely out of it. I consider Herbert Hoover one of America's greatest organizers, administrators and executives, but I don't think that he'll have enough influence with the characteristic makeup of delegates to the national convention."

Other Strong Potentialities.
"Former Governor Lowden of Illinois is a man of unusual popularity and attractive personality, but if he runs with the same crowd, as he seems to be doing, that was responsible for his defeat six years ago, he is not going to get very far. Either would make an excellent candidate."

"I have heard many complimentary references to Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts. He is very popular in the East and runs far ahead of his ticket when he is a candidate. Vice President Dawes also is a man of remarkable ability. I don't know whether he would appeal to the delegates. At any rate, the Republican party has plenty of men in its ranks who can fill with credit the office of President if Mr. Coolidge steps out."

STATE AUDITOR THOMPSON—
"I do not take the President's statement as meaning he would not be a candidate. I am for Coolidge and Lowden, both."

CHAIRMAN BROWN of the Public Service Commission—"It looks to me at this time as if President Coolidge will be chosen for the nomination. If the President does not seek re-election, I believe Lowden will be a strong possibility."

COLLECTOR KOELN—"It seems to me that the President may be trying to get the seches to find out whether there is a real demand for his renomination. I think Dr.
Clements' movement for Gov. Hadley is a good one. The candidate we are likely to hear mentioned most is Gov. Lowden, and I learned last night of efforts to line up support for him here and in Kansas City."

CIRCUIT CLERK SCHOLL—
"I think it very likely that Mr.
Coolidge would run if nominated.
Next in likelihood are Dawes, Hoover and Lowden."

MRS. CHAPLIN'S ATTORNEYS QUIT IN CLASH OVER POLICY

New Counsel Retained for Second Time: Stage Film Comedian's Wife Stripped Divorce Suit.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Lita Gray Chaplin today switched lawyers in her fight for a divorce and a part of the fortune of her husband, Charlie Chaplin. L. I. Young, K. Young and Milton Young, who were associated with Mrs. Chaplin's uncle, E. T. McMurray, announced they had withdrawn from the case because of differences in the matter of policy and procedure.

McMurray thereupon retained Bradner Lee Jr. and Kenyon Lee and the change will be effected formally Monday. Retiring counsel will appear in court tomorrow to have their fees fixed.

This is the second time Mrs. Chaplin has changed attorneys. George Beebe, her first attorney, withdrew a short time after the case was launched.

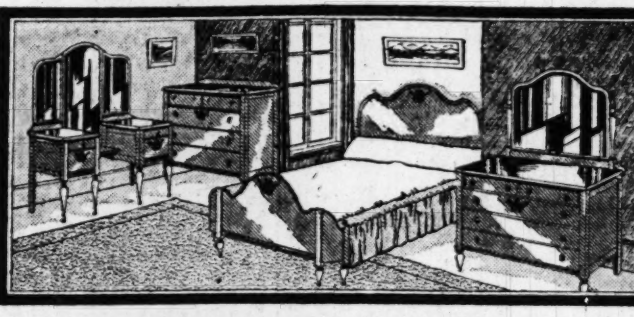

Chaplin's New York attorney is in Los Angeles. Negotiations have been reported under way to settle the case out of court.

Election Officers Sentenced.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Seven precinct election officers, convicted of committing frauds in the Nov. 2 and April 6 mayoralty elections, have been sentenced to serve terms in the county jail.

CLARKE MORSE LOW MEDALIST AT CLEVELAND

St. Louis Boy Turns in a 76 in Second 18 Holes, Giving Him Total of 73-76-149.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Clarke Morse of St. Louis today won a gold medal in the qualifying round of the national public links golf championship by scoring 73-76-149 on the 6650 yard course.

Carl Kauffman of Pittsburgh, who scored the first pair 72 of the qualifying rounds, was close behind with 152. Lester Bolstead of Minneapolis, lost the championship by failing to qualify in defense of his title. The young Norwester took 82 for each round, totaling 164.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—Carl Kauffman of Pittsburgh today topped the fold in the national public links golf championship at Ridgewood Club by scoring a 77 for a total of 149, one stroke better than the total of Carmen Bill of Cleveland, but with a possibility that a still better score might be returned later.

Robert Wingate of Jacksonville, Fla., went into a tie for second score with Bill by scoring 35-37-72, the best round of the day at the time he finished to total 151.

Dr. I. R. Day's score of 78 today, and that gives him a total of 141 for the 36 holes. His card: Out 474 543 454-40. In 445 545 445-38-73. Armin Muhr, of Dayton equalled.

Gehrig Gets No. 36 and 37 In Doubleheader

Yankee First Baseman Leads Babe Ruth by Three Home Runs.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Columbia Lou Gehrig forged ahead of Babe Ruth by three home runs in the long-distance clouting marathon by piling out his second of the day and his thirty-seventh of the year in the sixth inning of the closing game of the Yankee's twin series with Detroit today. None was on base. Gibson was the victim. Gehrig had hit for the circuit in the first game.

BENNY KAUFF SUES GIANTS FOR $6000
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Benny Kauff, Columbus, O. former professional baseball player, filed suit in the United States District Court today against the National Exhibition Company of New York, as operators of the New York National League club, for $6,000 damages.

He said the club entered into a contract with him on January 15, 1921, to pay him $6000 for his exclusive services as a baseball player during the season of 1921 and in condition to play but that "defendant refused to allow plaintiff to play with said New York National League team or any other baseball team."

He said the club paid him a total of $2000 from time to time but has refused to pay the balance of $4000 due under the contract and that he considers himself damaged to the extent of his claim.

CLARKE MORSE
LOW MEDALIST
AT CLEVELAND
St. Louis Boy Turns in a 76 in Second 18 Holes, Giving Him Total of 73-76—148.

Clarke Morse of St. Louis today won the gold medal in the qualifying round of the national public golf championship by scoring 73-76—149 on the 6650 yard course.

Carl Kaufman of Pittsburgh, was one stroke behind Morse, while Robert Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla. and Carmen Hill were tied at 151.

Frank Brown, St. Paul, who scored the first 72 of the qualifying rounds, was close behind with 153. Lester Bostead of Minneapolis, led the championship by failing to qualify in defense of his title. The young Norweman took 82 for each round, totaling 164.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Carl Kaufman of Pittsburgh today topped the fold in the national public golf championship at Edgewood club by scoring a 77 for the first round, one stroke better than the total of Carmen Hill of Cleveland, and with a possibility that a still better score might be returned later.

Robert Wingate of Jacksonville, Fla., went into a tie for second score with Hill by scoring 35-37—72, the best round of the day at the time he finished to total 151.

Dr. R. E. Day's score of a 78 to-day, and that gives him a total of 161 for the 36 holes. His card: Out—474 543 454—40—148.

Tunney 4 to 5 Favorite in Chicago Loop
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—
Tunney today was the favorite over Jack Dempsey in betting circles here.

Several small wagers were reported in some of the loop betting agencies.

Dempsey today reserved a bungalow atop a 42-story downtown hotel, to be used by himself and Mrs. Dempsey during his training period for the bout next month.

Reservation of the bungalow was believed to indicate the former heavyweight champion would train in Chicago or at a close-in suburb.

RICKARD STILL HOPES TO HOLD
BOUAT SEPT. 15
Promoter, Back in New York, Expects to Make Definite Decision in Next 24 Hours.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship match at Chicago may be held Sept. 15 after all,
as originally planned, instead of Sept.
22, Promoter Tex Rickard declared today on his return from Chicago.

Rickard declared he was making every effort to convince Jack Dempsey, who has been holding out for a later date, that September 15 is the most desirable time for the title battle. The promoter has advanced his arguments in telegrams and telephone talks with the former champion within the last 24 hours and expects to decide the date definitely today. It will positively be no later than September 22, he said.

Rickard conferred with Leo P.
Flynn, Dempsey's manager shortly after returning from New York and received the latter's assurances that either September 15 or September 22 would be satisfactory.

No Controversy Expected.
There will be no controversy with the New York State Athletic Commission, Rickard added, over his decision to hold the big bout in Chicago instead of New York.
The promoter said he regarded the issue as a closed book, asserting that at no time had he given the commission any definite assurance that he would stage the fight here.

By next year, however, Rickard plans to have a stadium in the metropolitan district big enough to handle as large a fight crowd as that which saw the first Dempsey-Tunney battle in Philadelphia last September or will see the return bout in Chicago this year. He has had plans for this arena in mind for some time and intends to make New York the scene of all his big fistic spectacles of the future, he said.

"I will never stage another heavyweight championship fight in a ball park," Rickard said, in referring to the unsatisfactory seating facilities at big fights here in the last few years.

TRANS-ATLANTIC YACHT TROPHY RACE PLANNED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A revival of trans-Atlantic yacht racing for a trophy to be given by the King of Spain is scheduled for next year, according to an announcement made here today. It was stated that King Alfonso is greatly interested in the idea of another big trans-Atlantic race between New York and Santander, Spain, and stands ready to sponsor a trophy if such a race can be arranged.

The idea is really an outgrowth of the friendships formed as long ago as 1907 and 1910 when small boat racing between Spanish and American yachts was held. It has gained such headway that a tentative committee to work on preliminary details has been formed.

CALLOW RELEASED BY U. OF WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Aug. 3.—The University of Washington was without the services of a head crew coach following the release of Russell S. Callow by the university board of control. Advice of former Washington crew men will be called on in the selection of his successor.

The action leaves Callow a free agent to sign a contract with the University of Pennsylvania at a reported salary of $12,000 a year. The board declared its regret at releasing Callow, but found it impossible to compete with Eastern universities in the matter of large salaries.

Vacations Are Hard on Glasses—Take an Extra Pair!

Guard against having your vacation spoiled by an accident that often happens—breaking your only pair of glasses. Be prepared—don't let such a mischance mar your pleasure and rob you of your recreation.

You Always Need More Than One Pair

Introducing The New Vogue

Interior Color Harmonies that match the lovely effect of the Drawing Room...

Buick for 1928 sets a new vogue in motor car design—

—a vogue for faithfully reproducing in closed car interiors the exquisite matching of colors... the tasteful harmony of appointment... the luxurious comfort with which America's foremost decorators have endowed our finest drawing rooms.

Rich fabrics, covering walls and ceilings, blend pleasantly with exterior finishes, forming a neutral background for matching or contrasting interior effects. Form-fitting tailored seats are upholstered in attractive materials of the finest quality. Carpets of pleasing pattern add a touch of lively color.

Now you can have a motor car as charming as your drawing room—a Buick for 1928. See these lovely closed cars at the nearest Buick showroom.
